

CHAPMAN & HALL'S NEW BOOKS.

CAPTAIN THE HON. D. BINGHAM
RECOLLECTIONS OF PARIS. By Capt. the Hon. D. A. BINGHAM, Author of "Napoleon's Last Despatches," "The Bastille." 2 vols. large crown 8vo, 18s.
Daily Chronicle says:—"Here we have the story, or rather the stories, of another 'Englishman in Paris,' but with a decided difference. For Capt. Bingham makes no mystery about his own personality, the authorship of his volumes, or his sources and opportunities of information. . . . And he has set them down, it must be owned, in a most charmingly chatty manner, with the practised pen of the English journalist and the delicate art of the French raconteur. . . . The tout ensemble forms very entertaining reading."

LORD CLARENCE PAGET
AUTOBIOGRAPHY AND JOURNALS OF ADMIRAL LORD CLARENCE PAGET, G.C.B. Edited by Sir ARTHUR OTWAY, Bart. Containing several Portraits and other Illustrations. Demy 8vo, 16s.
Morning Post says:—"The geniality and good spirits of Lord Clarence Paget's autobiography faithfully reflect the temperaments and character of one of the most popular sailors and naval politicians of his day. . . . His autobiography has the rare virtue of being absolutely without egotism, while it makes us appreciate his character and his career."

G. ARCHDALL REID.
THE PRESENT EVOLUTION OF MAN. By G. ARCHDALL REID. Crown 8vo, 7s. 6d.
World says:—"To make the obscure lucid, to open in one volume a new land to the layman and a wider prospect to the scientist, are surely no mean achievements. Yet Mr. Reid does these, and more, in 'The Present Evolution of Man,' a book full of learning and suggestiveness. The many with scientific leanings who have endeavoured to fight their way through the tangled thought of Weismann's work on the 'Germplasm,' and have failed, will find in it an easy exposition of the views of the great German biologist; the many to whom physiology is an unopened book will be led to a study of it for the first time. . . . Most of his arguments bear the impress of a highly original mind, and all of them are marshalled with great skill. . . . The mantle of the late Prof. Romanes seems to have descended on worthy shoulders."

STUART CUMBERLAND.
WHAT I THINK OF SOUTH AFRICA; its People and its Politics. By STUART CUMBERLAND. With Portraits and Illustrations. Crown 8vo, 5s.
Globe says:—"The book itself is to be welcomed, Mr. Cumberland writes of that which he knows, and at this time the men and places he discourses about are of great public interest. . . . Some excellent portraits illustrate this attractive and vigorously-written book."

OSWALD CRAWFURD.
LYRICAL VERSE FROM ELIZABETH TO VICTORIA. Edited by OSWALD CRAWFURD. With copious Notes, Index of Writers, and Index of First Lines. In 1 vol., about 450 pp. cloth, 3s. 6d. net.
A Limited Edition of 50 copies, Large Paper, full morocco, gilt top, One Guinea net.

Athenæum says:—"Mr. Crawford is to be commended for displaying so much breadth of intellectual and artistic sympathy. In this respect his volume may be described as more truly comprehensive than Mr. Palgrave's. The 'Golden Treasury' ignores the work of Sir Robert Ayton, Aphra Behn, William Browne, Chatterton, Congreve, Diddin, Donne, Ford, Habington, Bishop King, Montrose, Sir Walter Raleigh, Allan Ramsay, Robert Southwell and others, for all of whom Mr. Crawford, more genuinely hospitable, finds ample house room. Mr. Crawford's catholicity extends even to the reproduction of some verse of which the note is mainly humorous."

G. B. GRINNELL.
THE STORY OF THE INDIAN. By G. B. GRINNELL. With Illustrations. Crown 8vo, 6s.
Daily Chronicle says:—"It is in every way worthy of an author who, as an authority upon the Western Indians, is second to none. A book full of colour, abounding in observation, and remarkable in sustained interest, it is at the same time characterised by a grace of style which is rarely to be looked for in such a work, and which adds not a little to the charm of it."

H. H. STATHAM.
ARCHITECTURE FOR GENERAL READERS: A Short Treatise on the Principles and Motives of Architectural Design. With an Historical Sketch by H. HEATHCOTE STATHAM, F.I.A., Editor of the Builder. With upwards of 250 Illustrations. Second Edition. Large crown 8vo, 12s.
Times says:—"Mr. H. H. Statham has contrived, within the 320 pages of a crown 8vo. volume, to present a very excellent and complete treatise on 'the principles and motives of architectural design,' and to illustrate it in such a manner as to bring out the meaning of the text in a way that non-professional readers will value. . . . We have found the book at once instructive and pleasant to read. It supplies a real want, and supplies it very fully."

SIDNEY WHITMAN.
TEUTON STUDIES: Personal Reminiscences of Count von Moltke, Prince Bismarck, etc. By SIDNEY WHITMAN, Author of "Imperial Germany." Crown 8vo, 6s.
Daily Telegraph says:—"A collection of singularly able essays. . . . They display the excellent literary quality, accurate perception, and thorough knowledge of the subjects dealt with, that distinguished Mr. Whitman's 'Imperial Germany,' a work which Professor Blackie classed as 'one of the three best books on the concrete philosophy of politics' that he knew, and which secured the unqualified approval of Bismarck and Moltke alike."

A SON OF THE MARSHES.
THE WILD-FOWL AND SEA-FOWL OF GREAT BRITAIN. By A SON OF THE MARSHES. Illustrated by BRYAN HOOK. Demy 8vo, 14s.
Pall Mall Gazette says:—"Written in good English, without superfluous 'gush,' . . . the book is perfectly free from the close atmosphere of a museum, it is purged of the desultory treatment to which the subject is liable, and forms a convenient handbook for reference."

NEW WORKS OF FICTION.
W. H. MALLOCK.
THE HEART OF LIFE. By W. H. MALLOCK. Third Edition. Crown 8vo, 6s.

BY THE SAME.
A HUMAN DOCUMENT. By W. H. MALLOCK. Eighth Thousand. Crown 8vo, 3s. 6d.
